Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shioya et al (US Pat. 5,644,469).

Regarding claims 1-3, Shioya et al disclose a portable computer comprising: a base 3, the base 3 having a top face, a bottom face, a front edge, a rear edge, and two opposite side edges, the top face having a keyboard 4 installed thereon; a display unit 1, the display unit 1 having a display screen 5 for showing data, a top side, a bottom side, and two opposite lateral sides; and two coupling arms 10 coupling the display unit 1 to the base 3, the coupling arms 10 each having a first end pivotally coupled to one lateral side of the display unit 1 near the bottom side of the display unit 1, a second end pivotally coupled to a middle part of one side edge of the base 3, and an internal space for the passing of an electric signal line 18 being electrically connected between the base 3 and the display unit 1 wherein the base 3 further comprises a cursor control device 6 wherein the cursor control device 6 is a touch pad.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 4-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shioya et al (US Pat. 5,644,469) in view of Chiang et al (US Pat. 6,385,039)

Regarding claims 4-5, Shioya et al disclose all the subject matter of the claimed invention except for the base comprises an expansion slot set in the rear edge wherein the expansion slot is a battery slot holding an expansion battery pack. However Chiang et al disclose the base comprises an expansion slot set in the rear edge wherein the expansion slot is a battery slot holding an expansion battery pack (see figure 4).

Therefore, it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill to modify the base comprises an expansion slot set in the rear edge of Chiang et al's base into Shioya's base in order to be an alternate configuration for more advantage and convenient.

5. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shioya et al (US Pat. 5,644,469) in view of Chiang et al (US Pat. 6,385,039) and further in view of Bovio et al (US Pat. 6,724,623)

Regarding claim 6, Shioya et al and Chiang et al disclose all the subject matter of the claimed invention except for the expansion slot is a port replicator, the port replicator comprising at least one expansion slot. However Bovio et al disclose the expansion slot is a port replicator, the port replicator comprising at least one expansion slot (see figure 4). Therefore, it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill to modify the an expansion slot is a port replicator, the port replicator comprising at least one expansion slot of Bovio et al's expansion slot into Shioya and Chiang et al's expansion slot in order to be easy connection.

6. Claims 7-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shioya et al (US Pat. 5,644,469) in view of Choi (US Pat. 5,740,012).

Regarding claims 7-8, Shioya et al disclose all the subject matter of the claimed invention except for the base comprises a detachable expansion unit in front edge wherein the expansion unit is a CD-ROM player. However Choi disclose the base comprises a detachable expansion unit in front edge wherein the expansion unit is a CD-ROM player (see column 3, lines 50-65). Therefore, it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill to modify the base comprises a detachable expansion unit in front edge wherein the expansion unit is a CD-ROM player of Choi's base into Shioya's base in order to be more advantage and convenient.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
